Lion Jim Howell suffers stroke

Lion Howell underwent four and a half hours of surgery Wednesday (April 16) for a blood clot in his brain. Howell, who suffered a stroke early Tuesday morning (April 15) at his home, is hospitalized at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis. He was experiencing paralysis to his left side. Surgeons repaired the bleeding areas and removed the clot. Jim's son, Mark Howell, reported on his dad's progress. "He ate oat meal this morning (April 21) and lifted his left arm and left leg. He is talking (alot) and does very well with that. He will remain intensive care for a while. "But he is much improved. I saw him yesterday and he would talk but then fall asleep. But he does have a sense of humor (he made comments about Carlos, Lynn and Jim Jones). They said he has really improved over Sunday when I saw him."

Howell participated in the Lions' Club Community Awards banquet Monday evening (April 14) at Centerville Elementary Gymnasium, where he presented one of the awards. David Nixon of the Centerville Bi-Centennial Committee revealed the Committee had planned on announcing that Howell has been selected as Grand Marshall of the Bi-Centennial Parade this year. Nixon said in a Facebook posting on Tuesday that "We would love to see him riding down the parade route."
