Halloween Party is a big success

The Community Halloween Party for the Centerville area was held Saturday October 29th in the Centerville Elementary Gym.

Sponsored by the Centerville Lions Club, the party included costume judging and prizes, along with games and the always popular cake walk. A large crowd attended and members of the Lions Club and Leo Club helped with the party.

The purpose for the event is to provide activity for the community's youth on Halloween.

Wandersee gives update on Centerville

Town Council president Dan Wandersee updated members of the Centerville Lions Club on recent changes. One of the biggest changes is the annexation north to Interstate 70 which includes the new rest area, now called the Centerville Tourist Center. It also includes Warm Glow Candle, which will be expanding into the building holding the Model T Ford Museum. The museum will be relocating to the Depot District of Richmond. He said the value of this annexation is the tax base.

Wandersee also said the new Crown Creek Boulevard will be opening soon with a dedication ceremony. It will serve the UPS Distribution Center. He said UPS has purchased land east of the facility that will see 60 additional jobs.

He announced that the Blue Monkey has been sold and will become a restaurant and bar similar to what the old "Jag's" was. He said the police department is planning on moving into the old State Highway building on National Road east of town.

Wandersee said the town budget keeps getting smaller. The 2012 budget of $700,000 is a couple of hundred thousand dollars less than a few years ago.
