Roger Richert talks about the Depot

Roger "I'll Save You Money" Richert, owner of Richmond Furniture, talked about the Historic Railroad Depot at the Lions Club meeting Monday evening, September 24.

Richert, who bought the train depot at a tax sale, said it had sat empty for 40 years and was decaying. Designed by the famed architect Daniel Burnham, it has been designated a certified historic site.

He said it may be used as a children's museum or banquet center.

Richert, who purchased the old Miller's Hardware Building in 2004 where his furniture store is located, has also helped in saving several old buildings in the Depot District.
