Lions learn about Civic Theatre

Richmond Civic Theatre General Manager Bill Strouce enlightened member of the Centerville Lions Club about the history and operation of Civic Theatre Monday evening, September 26th. Strouce told about the 70 year history of the theatre.

He said three divisions now make up the organization: Main Stage (season ticket), Studio Ten and Stage One (children). Volunteers run the operation with the exception of two paid employees. He said it costs around $1,500 to put on plays and around $5,500 for musicals and can run up to $10,000.

The Vial of Life Program

The Vial of Life was distributed to members of the Centerville Lions Club Monday evening, September 26. The program was approved by the Lions club on April 25 when Lion Phil Benedict made the proposal to the club to help sponsor the program with the STAR 360 Motorcycle Touring Club.

Individuals list their insurance, medications, medical history, allergies and contacts including doctors which is placed in a vial that is kept in refrigerators at home and in automobile glove compartments. In emergencies, EMTs know where to look for the information.

Here's a deal for you

(1) If you talk to someone about coming to a Lions Club meeting you will get an extra 50/50 ticket. (Of course you have to be honest with this one.)

(2) If you bring a prospective member to a Lions Club meeting you will get your meal free.

(3) If you have a prospective member join the Centerville Lions Club you will get two free meals.

So... that figures at several chances to win at the 50/50 and three free meals or more. If you brought in several new members you could go all year without paying for a meal.
